

Training Opportunities Exploding at ABC Palmer, Thanks to You

From the Brooks Range to inner-city Anchorage, ABC students are learning to serve in diverse environments

Serving in the inner-city and in remote villages is simply part of the learning process for Alaska Bible College student, Tamara Fairbanks.

Tamara serves in Anchorage's Mt. View area, the most ethnically diverse neighborhood in America. When she teaches Sunday School at Sunrise Community Church, children from numerous ethnic backgrounds excitedly line up to be in her class and hear the Good News.

She has served as a summer camp counselor at the remote Brooks Range Bible Camp near Bettles where children are flown in from numerous isolated villages – many to hear the Gospel for the first time. Tamara is just one of a growing number of well-balanced Alaska Bible College students who are being trained to be effective witnesses in the hard-to-reach places.

Thanks to your partnership, ABC students have received a rare opportunity to be trained in urban and rural settings, and many places in between.

Your Gifts Have Gone Further in Palmer

In the summer of 2013, ABC moved its main campus to Palmer, Alaska. The move was initially viewed as an opportunity to improve the cost efficiency of the school; over $65,000 in heating costs was saved in the first year alone. More importantly, the move has strategically positioned ABC students within an hour's drive of more than half of all Alaskans.

Please consider a gift of any amount, and partner with our students. The mission field has, in many ways, come to our front door, and our students greatly benefit from the opportunity.

Our Palmer location has given our students an outreach potential that has far exceeded our expectations.

ABC welcomes visitors to its Palmer campus during "Colony Days."

Our mission depends on your continual support. Thank you from the bottom of our hearts!
